School of Forestry announces new co-op program - first in Canada

Dr. John Naysmith, Director of the School of Forestry and John DeGiacomo, Co-operative Education Co-ordinator at Lakehead University have announced that Canada's first university level co-op forestry program will be offered beginning this fall. The program is designed to respond to increasing demands by industry for graduates with more practical experience. It will combine the school's four year program with five four month work terms. Student placements will primarily be centred with private industry and government agencies. Nancy Luckai has been appointed the Forestry Co-op advisor. She says, "men and women from across Canada now have access to a unique educational package which addresses the many challenges facing forest resource managers". It is anticipated that enrolment in the forestry program will increase as a result of the introduction of the first Canada-wide co-op option.

Report From the President

Dr. Bob Rosehart

CELEBRATION 1990

The Silver Jubilee celebrations came to a fitting end with the Canada Day weekend reunion. This was the first major reunion of Lakehead University graduates planned by the Alumni Association, and the weekend was very successful. Over 400 participants registered for the many events, and it was impressive to see the many early graduates take part from all across Canada, the United States and the United Kingdom.

The "Fresh Air" radio show was a highlight, and I am sure that if the audience didn't know about Lakehead University before the show, they do now. The duo of Tom and Dusty Miller were particularly entertaining on the show and, once again, point out the wisdom of the Alumni Association in choosing Dusty as the 1990 Alumni Award winner.

As with all events, suggestions for next time were freely given, and I would encourage the Association to work on the success of this event and plan for perhaps the 30th!

CENTRE FOR NORTHERN STUDIES

Geoff Weller, Vice-President (Academic), has recently announced some changes in the Centre for Northern Studies. Firstly, Margaret Boone has assumed the Chair of the Advisory Committee to the Centre and the membership of this group will be expanded to include the two Deans. Professor Norm Bonsor has assumed the role of Interim Director of the Centre and a process will be put into place to see a Director selected in a process similar to an academic department. Dr. Paul Watts has accepted a position with the Department of Biology and will continue his northern studies research.

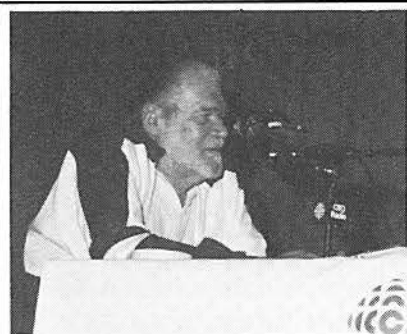

SPECIAL COMMITTEE ON FUTURE FUNDING

As you know, with the changes in Federal Government funding the provinces to cover the costs of post-secondary education, as well as the recent Ontario corridor funding decisions, it is important that Lakehead University look seriously at our future fiscal well being. The audited statements of this past fiscal year (89/90) are just now available and, for the first time since the early 80's, we had an operating deficit of slightly more than $100,000.

In order to prepare the University for dealing with the regular 1991/92 budget preparation cycle, I have established a special Presidential Committee on Future Funding that will meet over the summer and table a report in the early fall. This Committee, co-chaired by Professor G. Weller and Mr. F. Poulter, will have membership drawn from various groups including two faculty from the Senate Budget Committee and one of the Executive members of L.U.S.U. Their challenge is to predict, over a multi-year period, the likely external income to Lakehead University in the form of operating grants and tuition fees as well as to examine various models of expenditure distribution within the University.

HAVE A HAPPY AND SAFE SUMMER!

Lakehead University was given a breath of "Fresh Air" at the Reunion. Hosted by CBC Radio veteran Bill McNeil, listeners were treated to yarns spun by the Miller duo of Dusty and Professor Emeritus Tom. Professor of Social Work Mary Lou Kelley discussed her involvement in the Council for Positive Aging (COPA). Ruth Robinson spoke about her graduation from high school two days before (after 52 years away from school). She will attend LU in the fall. Compliments of Dr. Yves Prevost, Bill snacked on the infamous "bug fudge" while on the air.

Around Campus

First non-teaching staff member elected to Board of Governors

Bonnie Wigmore, paymaster in the Department of Finance, has been elected as representative to the Board of Governors for a three year term. She has worked for the university for 10 years and is the first full-time non-teaching staff member to serve on the Board.

Convocation '90 videos available

Videos of the morning and afternoon 1990 convocation ceremony proceedings are available by phone or mail from the Department of Audio Visual (343 8267). These 2 hour VHS or BETA tapes cost $20.00 (including tax). European/Asian conversions are also available for an additional $30.00. This video yearbook includes opening ceremonies and the conferring of degrees on all graduands.

LU grad appointed Superintendent of Education

Mr. Kevin Debnam (BEd '87, MEd '82, BA '76, DipEd '71) has been appointed Superintendent of Education effective August 1990. Mr. Debnam is currently the Coordinator of Elementary programs and has been with the Board since 1971. He replaces Gerry Blake who accepted a position as Superintendent of Curriculum with the Durham Region Roman Catholic School Board in Oshawa.

Who's on first?

And who's on second. The construction of the new Student Centre and Regional Education Centre has caused the recent disappearance of a few LU fixtures. LUSU President Ian Middleton and the entire LUSU crew insist they have moved their offices to the Aesthetics Lounge UC2014 for the next 12 months. The photographic evidence reveals a different story. First, they took his door, then the office furniture and finally the building but an intrepid photographer finally tracked him to his new office.

That leaves the Learning Assistance Centre on second, or rather on the 4th floor of the Chancellor Paterson Library. They are now open for business in Room 4016 at the same phone number.

The Understudy has closed but will re-open in mid-August at its new location in the Games Room.

Labatt's Assists Campus Alcohol Awareness Program

Dave Vaillant, Labatt's Sales Representative, presented a $2500 cheque to Jeff Dockeray, (LUSU) Pub Manager and Programmer on behalf of Labatt's Breweries for the Lakehead University Student Union's new Alcohol Awareness Program. The program is designed to map out alcohol-related problems on campus and to find ways of dealing with them. The influx of younger students to university is changing the face of campuses across Ontario and student leaders are looking to new group activities with the focus away from alcohol.

Korean War Vets Commemorate 40th Anniversary with a Donation to LU

The Korean Veterans Association, Unit 30 Thunder Bay donated a number of valuable books to Lakehead University recently, in commemoration of the 40th Anniversary of the end of the Korean War. The set of seven books deal with Korean history, culture and art. President of the Veteran's Association, Ken Himes, says "we want more people to realize that Canadians did serve in Korea - in fact, more than 26, 000! There were 560 fatalities and more than 1000 wounded". Veterans from across the region formed a colour party and proceeded to the President's Office where Dr. Rosehart was presented with the donation.

The Korean Veterans Association's colour party trooped the Canadian and Korean flags through the University Centre as part of the commemorative ceremony.

In Remembrance

Ken Burns, a maintenance worker with Campus Development died unexpectedly on June 27, 1990. Ken worked at Lakehead University for the past 20 years. He was deeply devoted to his family and to his church. Ken will be remembered by co-workers as a hard-worker and for his obliging and friendly manner. Our deepest sympathies are extended to the Burns family.

Winners of the LU Oral Modern Language Contest

longtime Thunder Bay resident, was originally established to honour Mr. Macgillivray's high school French teacher, Helena G. Raitt. The contestants must demonstrate conversational ability in French, Spanish or German and are judged on their vocabulary, pronunciation, intonation, grammatical accuracy and fluency.

Thomas Geburek

Dr. Thomas Geburek has joined the School of Forestry as a visiting scholar. Originally from West Germany, Dr. Geburek studied forestry science at the University of Goettingen in Hamburg. He will be conducting research at Lakehead University, primarily in the area of forest conservation. "This is important research in Germany because of the massive decline of the forests there", says Dr. Geburek. Part of Geburek's reason for coming to Canada was for the "gain in personal experience". He finds the "Canadian attitude" largely different from the European but enjoys the challenge of learning the ropes in a foreign country. Geburek and wife, Sabine spend their leisure time exploring the region's Provincial Parks and enjoy hunting, fishing and canoeing. The Gebureks are expecting a very special Christmas gift this year - the first Canadian Geburek will be born in December.

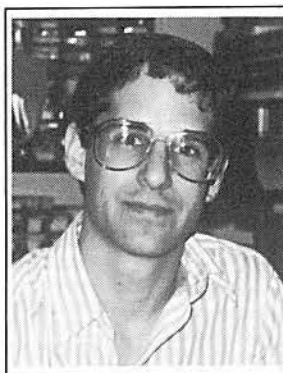

Kathy Matic

Kathy Matic is a new face at the circulation desk in the Library. Born in Yugoslavia, Kathy moved to Thunder Bay when she was four and has spent most of her life in the city. She attended Port Arthur Collegiate Institute and recently graduated from the Business/Marketing Program at Confederation College. A volleyball fanatic, Kathy and her family have set up a net in their backyard. She also enjoys reading fiction novels and is a true horror story fanatic - Stephen King being her favorite author. Kathy bought a small boat, which she made seaworthy over the winter months, and is looking forward to testing the waters with it over the summer.

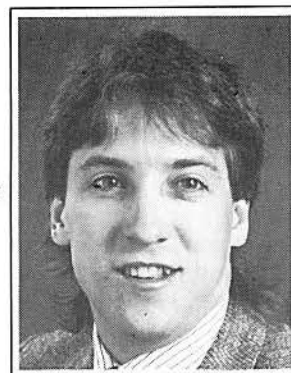

Stephen Albanese

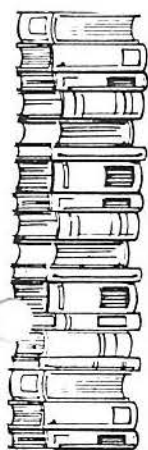

Stephen Albanese is the new Micro Computer Technician in Audio-Visual Services. He is replacing Cathy Rhind who will be pursuing full-time engineering in the fall. Stephen comes to Lakehead University from working three years for a local firm, Hi-Tech Computer. He is a graduate of Hillcrest High School. Stephen has been married for six years to Susan. Stephen enjoys listening to what he terms "non-commercial" music and is a fan of PBS television. He likes to travel and hopes to get more opportunities to do so in the future. He has been all through the eastern states in the U.S. visiting the cities of Washington, Pittsburg and Philadelphia. In the future Stephen would like to start his own computer business.

Robert Zuback

Robert Zuback has been appointed to the newly created position of Development Officer in the External Relations department. Rob will be working with area residents, organizations and businesses to maintain and improve LU's competitive role nationally in the areas of teaching, research and development. Apart from getting settled in his new position, new duties lie ahead for Rob. At press time the Agora staff received the happy news that Rob and his wife Debbie delivered a baby boy, John David Adam Zuback, on Monday, July 9.

The refereed paper is on an experiment developed by Dr. Tsang for a Heat Transfer course taken by fourth year students in Mechanical and Chemical Engineering. The conference was attended by about 2,500 engineering educators from around the world.

ONTARIO MINISTRY OF NATURAL RESOURCES

Ontario Renewable Resources Research Grant Program (ORRRGP)

The purpose of this research grant program is to finance renewable resource research at Ontario universities and comparable institutions that will:

1. Develop knowledge which will assist in maintaining and increasing the stock of fisheries, forestry and wildlife resources that in Ontario contribute directly and indirectly to economic and social benefits;
2. Enhance research capability related to the development, management, protection and rehabilitation of these renewable resources;
3. Stimulate collaboration and communications in this research between the ministry, university and other scientific communities;
4. Increase the amount of funding from the industrial, private non-profit and public sectors being devoted to this type of research.

This program supports studies of up to five years duration that offer promise of assisting ministry managers to deal more effectively with short-term operational or longer-term strategic issues. To ensure relevance, applicants should acquaint themselves with current program concerns of ministry managers in the particular field or area proposed for the research project.

In addition to applied research, this program may support or supplement basic research of the type normally eligible for support by national councils, provided that relevance to ministry management problems is clearly demonstrated.

Proposals to develop knowledge in the following general areas will be considered:

1. Methods for better and more cost effective sampling and estimation of available resources.
2. Genetics, physiology and behaviour, leading to an improved understanding of the resource as well as the limits to its productivity potential.
3. Structure, interactions and dynamic changes of ecosystems, leading to new insights into their responses to natural and man-made environmental factors.
4. Development and validation of indices, models or cause-effect relationships to predict changes in resource productivity over time under various management regimes and external stresses.
5. Restoration and rehabilitation of degraded environments and depleted resources.
6. Evaluation of effects of changing consumer demands and preferences on resources and their utilization.
7. Development of methodologies to evaluate the efficiency and effectiveness of compliance mechanisms (legislative, enforcement and other) used in resource management.

There are specific areas of high priority for wildlife, fisheries, forestry, and for parks and protected areas research. This information is included in the application packages that are in the Research Office. The deadline for receipt of grant applications for the fiscal year 1991-92 is November 15, 1990.

MINISTRY OF THE ENVIRONMENT

Environmental Technologies Program

The spring deadline (June 15, 1990) is now past. There may be a fall deadline if all of the present funds are not allocated. You will be informed if there is another submission date for this year.

This is a 5-year program and the next definite deadline is February 1991. Please refer to the June 1990 edition of the AGORA or myself for additional information on this program.

ONTARIO MINISTRY OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Fund for Dispute Resolution

The Attorney General Ian Scott announced March 17, 1990 that through the cooperation of government and private donors "The Fund for Dispute Resolution", a pool of more than one million dollars, has been created to finance research into alternatives to the traditional litigation process."

Alternative dispute resolution" (also known as ADR) includes a variety of techniques like negotiation, conciliation, mediation, and arbitration which can operate either as an adjunct or as an alternative to the court system.

This fund will allow the citizens of Ontario to evaluate whether alternative dispute resolution can reduce the delays and expenses of the litigation system. This four year project represents an extraordinary opportunity for cooperation between government and the private sector, and for blending the experience of judges and lawyers with that of mediators, arbitrators, academics and community justice advocates.

The "Fund for Dispute Resolution" is the first of its kind in Canada. The type of projects to be supported include training, education, and evaluation as well as a variety of pilot and demonstration projects.

The Fund has been established through the collaborative efforts and funding contributions of three different bodies - the Ministry of the Attorney General for Ontario ($500,000); the Donner Canadian Foundation, a private, national foundation with a record of making grants in the ADR field ($320,000 to support infrastructure costs of the Fund's four year existence); and the Law Foundation of Ontario, a public foundation which is financed through the interest on lawyers' trust accounts ($300,000) for a total of $1.125 million dollars.

Although the Ministry of the Attorney General is providing the largest share of the support, all donors have agreed that the Fund will be administered by a national, nonprofit organization, "The Network: Interaction for Conflict Resolution", located in Kitchener, Ontario. Formed in 1985, it is an association of organizations and individuals dedicated to promoting better conflict resolution in criminal, civil and community disputes throughout Canada. Decisions on the allocation of funds will be made by a funding council appointed by the Attorney General, the Donner Canadian Foundation and The Network.

ADR techniques have long been used effectively in Canada to resolve labour disputes. Family mediation has been available for fifteen years in Ontario. Other examples of ADR techniques currently in use include mediation by the Workers' Compensation Board and by the Freedom of Information and Privacy Commission. The Fund will provide the capacity to determine through rigorous evaluation and research whether new and untried techniques offer solutions to the problems of delay, excessive costs, and lack of access to the justice system. At the end of four years, all participants will have the benefit of this research to guide them in the development of future policy and programs.

ONTARIO MINISTRY OF COMMUNITY AND SOCIAL SERVICES

The Child, Youth and Family Policy Research Centre

The Child, Youth and Family Policy Research Centre is an independent, multi-disciplinary policy research institute whose objectives are to stimulate support, and produce high quality, objective research and analysis in the area of public policy related to children, youth and families. The Centre seeks to influence and achieve social policies which reflect a strategic investment in children, youth and families based on solid, Canadian research.

The Centre works with all groups concerned with child, youth and family policy issues, including social agencies corporations, foundations, governments, researchers and advocacy organizations.

Initial funding for the Centre has been provided by the Government of Ontario, through the Ministry of Community and Social Services. Additional project funding has been obtained from foundation and corporate sources.

Instituted as a charitable, independent corporation, incorporated in June 1988, the Centre has links to major research universities in Ontario. The Centre is governed by a Board of Directors representing multi-disciplinary interests. The Board of Directors has a Research Council to advise on research programs and review and evaluate the centre's research projects. Members of the Research Council include experts in the areas of economics, law, social welfare, sociology, health, psychology and education.

The research is carried out by researchers who are recruited for projects by the Centre, but work within the agencies or universities where they are based.

One part of the Centre's current research program involves policy research and analysis in two theme areas:

- Child, Family and State
- Work and Family

The Centre is interested in funding project proposals in these two areas that will help to inform decision makers (e.g. government officials; employers) on policy issues that have implications for children, youth and families across Ontario. Although some of the suggested projects focus on Ontario, the Centre welcomes proposals that have a national focus or involve a comparison of Ontario with other jurisdictions.

For a list of topics that could be addressed under the two theme areas, please call me at Ext. 8223.

INTERNATIONAL SOCIETY OF ARBORICULTURE RESEARCH TRUST:

Grants For Shade Tree Research and Educational Projects"

Each year since 1975, the International Society of Arboriculture has awarded grants to encourage scientific and educational research on shade trees. Horticulturists, plant pathologists, entomologists, soil specialists and others are invited to submit brief outlines of proposed projects where grants might help buy supplies or equipment, hire technical or student help, or otherwise aid the work. For 1988, 1989 and 1990. (deadlines of Dec. 1 of 1987, 1988, and 1989) the Trustees voted 10 grants at $2,000 each year. Number and size of 1991 grants (deadline December 1, 1990) have not yet been determined.

Individuals self-supported or privately or publicly employed are eligible. There is no restriction by religion, race, sex, age, nationality or residence of applicant. The grants are not expected to cover all research costs but to aid, stimulate and encourage scientific studies of shade trees. ISA requires that administrative overhead not be deducted from grants it awards. Recipients will be asked to publish their results in ISA's "Journal of Arboriculture" (Editor: Dr. Dan Neely, Illinois Natural History Survey, 607 East Peabody, Champaign, IL. 61820, phone 217-244-2168).

For application procedures please call me at Extension 8223. To be considered, proposals must arrive at the University of Massachusetts by December 1, 1990.

CANADA MORTGAGE AND HOUSING CORPORATION

Grants for Housing Research

CMHC is interested in supporting research on housing and residential and community planning and development. Any housing topic may be investigated including those which cover social, cultural, economic, technical, environmental, legal, industry related, policy, program and administrative aspects of housing.

Proposals must have a clearly stated objective and a well defined plan for reaching that objective. They must demonstrate an understanding of existing work on the same topic, and provide the possibility of expanding knowledge in the subject area. The audience and potential users of the proposed research results must be identified. The research proposal must include a viable and rigorous methodology which holds promise of accurate and useful results. A proposal must be able to stand on its own and not form part of a series. New ideas and innovative approaches with merit are welcome.

The maximum value of an External Research grant is $20,000. An application may be made for any amount up to this value, but the amount requested must be commensurate with the scope of the research to be undertaken.

Twenty-one researchers (out of 90 eligible applicants) from across Canada were awarded research contracts by CMHC this January. The research funded this year covered a range of subject areas including residential area planning, condominiums, cooperative housing, energy conservation, environmental pollution and housing, housing older Canadians, housing technology and building science, mortgage debt, real property assessment, the regulatory environment for housing, immigrants and rental housing, and residential waste disposal.

The next deadline for application to CMHC is October 2, 1990. I have the new guidelines, application forms and a list of 240 examples of research program reports resulting from CMHC funding. The topics are extremely diverse and I encourage you to explore this program for potential research funding.
