When they call you all excited to tell you how wonderful their lives are, you will change the subject. Soon they will stop calling and you will end up not only bitter and twisted, but very lonely as well. You will go for lunch all by yourself.

TOM WARDEN

Lakehead's New Athletic Director

Tom Warden has some big ideas for Lakehead.

Since his appointment as athletic director at the end of July, he has been making plans to develop the athletics program, increase its profile, and strengthen Lakehead University's connections with the community through partnerships with The Lakehead District School Board and other private and public sector bodies. He also wants to improve the facilities in order to enhance the students' experience.

One of his first goals is to establish an Athletic Advisory Board to help guide Lakehead in developing its athletic programs. It will be comprised of students, faculty, staff, alumni, Booster Club members and local business people.

Tom Warden is a graduate of Lakehead University (BE'd'93) who for three years served as head coach and director of business and hockey operations for the Thunder Bay Thunder Cats Hockey Club.

He is a graduate of the University of Toronto, where he was team captain of the Varsity Blues Hockey Team. He has a Master's in Athletic Administration from Ohio University.

You can contact Tom Warden by telephone (807) 343-8605, fax (807) 343-8944 or by e-mail: tom.warden@lakeheadu.ca

President's Message

Revitalizing Lakehead

By Dr. Frederick F. Gilbert

It is hard to believe that over a year has passed since my first message in the Nor'Wester. A lot has transpired, yet things are really only just under way. The Strategic Plan has been approved by the Senate and Board of Governors and implementation has started. All areas of the University will be affected and engaged as we look at academic and administrative restructuring, fostering a student-centred learning environment, enhancing support infrastructure for teaching and research, introducing accountability and performance standards and fulfilling our Aboriginal mandate. It will be a busy and exciting time and change will be under way on many fronts. The monitoring group for this important phase will have a representative from the Alumni Association. This group will ensure that those tasked with the responsibilities of following through on the objectives are doing so in an appropriate and timely fashion. A copy of the Strategic Plan can be requested from the Office of the Executive Assistant to the President or by e-mailing bdsensec@lakeheadu.ca

We are faced with a number of capital funding issues on campus. There is optimism that the provincial government will recognize Lakehead's space shortage and approve new capital funding to include an Advanced Technology and Academic Centre. If we are to meet current needs of our students and start to address the issue of growth linked to the double cohort, it is essential that new classroom, laboratory, computer and distance education space be created as soon as possible.

Half of the bleachers in the Thunderdome have been found to be unsafe by engineers, and we are looking to replace all the bleachers as a result. This project will be completed next summer and Athletics will have a "seat sale" to help with funding.

There are changes under way in our advancement efforts. The Lakehead University Foundation is being revitalized, the functional relationships with it and the Development Office, the Alumni Association, and the Board of Governors' Fund-raising Committee are being established. It will be critical to have a smoothly functioning relationship among these bodies, if we are to be successful in the long term.

Dedication to Art, Precision in Words, Wisdom in Life

By Janet Fuchek, BA/BEd '88

Diane Schoemperlen started her award-winning writing career as a student in the 1970s. In May she received the Alumni Honour Award, given annually to a Lakehead graduate in recognition of outstanding achievement

Canadian author, Diane Schoemperlen, likes to experiment with the conventions of standard fictional narrative. It's a writing style that has been beginning to pay off for the Thunder Bay native, who now makes her home in Kingston, Ontario, with her son, Alexander.

Last November she claimed the coveted Governor General's Literary Award for English Fiction for her book of short stories and pictures, Forms of Devotion. It was a three-year project. An earlier collection, The Man of My Dreams, was short-listed for that distinction and for the Trillium Award.

"It's a kind of validation for having worked a long time," said Schoemperlen. "To win a prize like that and to be recognized in that way is really thrilling and fulfilling."

Last May at Convocation the 45-year-old writer was presented with the Lakehead University Alumni Honour Award in recognition of her outstanding achievements. She graduated in 1976 with a bachelor of arts degree in English and has since published four collections of short stories and one novel, In the Language of Love.

"Coming back to Lakehead to get the Alumni Honour Award was really great. It feels nostalgic coming back," said Schoemperlen in a pre-Convocation interview.

Schoemperlen credits Dr. Claude Liman, a professor in the Department of English, as one of the key people in her career. The author, who hails from Westfort and is a graduate of Westgate Collegiate and Vocational School, says she also gained valuable insight as a student at the Banff School of Writing, upon graduation from Lakehead.

Schoemperlen is working on a new novel expected to be completed in December 1999 and released in the fall of 2000.

Despite having won a Governor General's Award, she says she's not worried about the pressure to produce another masterpiece, as part of the "second-book syndrome." Although she did admit she's superstitious about revealing more.

"Writing a book is a long process. The motivation is not to impress people, but to write the story I have to tell in the best way I can." Schoemperlen figures her son, Alex, 13, will follow in her footsteps. "I think he's inherited my creative imagination," she said proudly.

It was Alex who suggested she illustrate her stories.

"'Gee, Mom,' he said, 'It's too bad your books don't have pictures in them.' I thought he had a really good point."

"I started collecting wood engravings and line drawings from earlier centuries that are copyright-free. I did a lot of research about collages. I made collages. I sold a few. It wasn't a big leap to use pictures in a book."

"One thing that is really important to me when writing is the sound of the language," says Schoemperlen. "What I work on is the rhythm of the sentence. I think of prose as being just like poetry in the sense that every word must count. When I'm writing, I say everything out loud. My sense of voice appeals to people. I can hear the voice. It's not just words on a page."

She said that American author, Annie Dillard, once wrote, "One of the most important things for a painter is that he or she must love to paint. I really need to love language. There's not really anything else I'd rather do." □

Diane Schoemperlen gave the $1000 honorarium associated with the Alumni Honour Award to the Department of English. In accepting the gift, Dr. Claude Liman said...

"When you were my student in 1976, I had only been teaching for two years at Lakehead University. If you had come later, I might have recognized you as that student who arrives once a teaching lifetime. You were very good at American literature and creative writing, but it is only now, looking at the grading curve from a 20-year retrospect, that I see you were really off that curve. I should go back and change every 'A' I gave you to an 'A+'."

"You were serious, disciplined, dedicated. You loved literature, serving it with great sensitivity in your reading and with great care, energy and skill in your own stories and poems. In my mind I can still see your fountain pen laying down its thin sure line of blue ink across all your out-of-class assignments and in-class exams...."

"It's said that good teachers learn from their students. I've felt some of this symbiosis before, but I suspect that most of my learning from students comes later, as it does now. I've followed your career and seen you just enough over the past decades to know how much you've taught me. You teach dedication to art, precision in words, wisdom in life...." □

Recent changes in personnel have seen Dr. Mary Louise Hill, vice-president (academic), Dr. Mark Howe, dean of graduate studies and research, Dr. Julia O'Sullivan, dean of education, and Tom Warden, director of athletics, arrive and begin to make their presences felt. Recruitment of new faculty will become a major and increasingly competitive issue as retirements increase. The deans of Forestry and the Forest Environment and of Business Administration have agreed to a six months' extension in their terms of office while the academic structure is being reviewed. It makes little sense to advertise for these positions until we know what the possible revisions in structure might be.

The faculty have continued their success in acquiring the Canada Foundation for Innovation grants with Lakehead's total at 14 and $1,731,394 – an outstanding performance for a small university. Drs. Dignam and Hecnar are recipients of Premier's Research Excellence Awards and our NSERC awards have increased to almost $1 million.

The Northwestern Ontario Technology Centre has opened on land donated by Lakehead University and will provide incubator support for potential technology entrepreneurs. The University has purchased the top floor of the building to house the DNA Lab. The Lab is expected to be a major facility for paleo and forensic DNA work with certification expected before the end of next year.

Although the 1999/2000 academic year has witnessed a further decline in student enrolment we remain optimistic that actions currently being taken will ensure that next year should see stabilization in student numbers to be followed by several years of enrolment increases.

Lakehead's varsity teams are now the "Thunderwolves." The name change resulted from a student referendum last spring organized by LUSU that was supported by the Administrative Executive Committee. The consonance with Thunder Dome, Thunder Bolts and Thunder Bay is obvious, but what might not be is that the name is far more marketable and more attractive to younger people than "Nor'Westers." There probably are at least a few alums who will be sorry to see the old name replaced, but Thunderwolves is dynamic and brash enough to reflect Lakehead's emerging image as an educational force to be reckoned with in Ontario and beyond.

I've sketched a number of items in this message to reflect that much is happening at your alma mater. In future issues of the Nor'Wester, I will try to give a more detailed accounting of particular issues affecting the University.

Achievement Through Effort

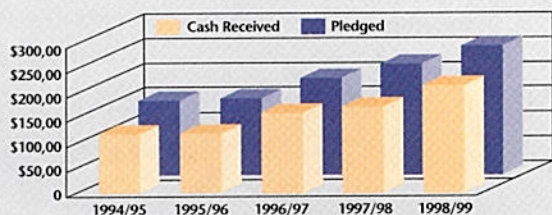

"The years I spent at Lakehead were my first serious steps along the path towards fulfilling my dream of becoming a writer. Personally, I make my contribution to the Alumni Annual Fund as a way of acknowledging the vital role my university education has played in my eventual success. As government support continues to dwindle, the Fund needs our support more than ever. Our contributions will enhance the education of students currently enrolled at Lakehead, so that they too may find and follow their dreams. Past, present, and future: the Alumni Annual Fund helps to uphold the fine traditions of Lakehead University for all of us." — Diane Schoemperlen

The 1999/2000 Alumni Annual Fund fall phonathon is under way. When a Lakehead student calls, graduates will have the opportunity to correct their address, find out about alumni events and programs, news of their Faculty or School, and make gifts in support of the Alumni Annual Fund. Last year, nearly 2,500 alumni made gifts through the Annual Fund and the phonathon – pledging more than $262,450 to enrich much of what Lakehead offers its students.

Help continue to build the tradition that is Lakehead.

THANK YOU DONORS!

Last year, the Alumni Annual Fund raised over $262,450 in cash and pledges from a total of 2,480 alumni who made contributions. The majority of gifts were directed to endowed bursaries in keeping with the goal the Alumni Association to pledge $400,000 to the Ontario Student Opportunity Trust Fund (OSOTF) program. When matched by the provincial government, this pledge will result in $800,000 for student financial aid – enough to generate 80 new bursaries (valued at $600 each) in perpetuity!

Multiple Choice.

You thought you'd never have to face all that guessing again.

You're right. Exams are a thing of the past. But choices are not. You'll choose a vehicle to drive. You'll choose a house to live in. And you'll choose an insurance program to protect them.

We can eliminate some of the guessing. Your Alumni Association reviewed the plans available to find you the best coverage and price, and has joined forces with Traders General, one of Canada's largest property and casualty insurers. The plan has been developed at Campbell & Company, a specialist in alumni insurance. It is tailored to your needs and accompanied by exceptional service — and exceptional savings.
